

From: Excalicoi@aol.com@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 12/13/01 12:17pm
Subject: MS settlement

Microsoft has accomplished great things in the standardization of the computer industry; much as Hitler rebuilt Germany and Stalin ran Russia. They must be as tightly regulated as possible. They must also be made to provide a functional operating WINDOWS which they have never done. All WINDOWS operating systems have been fraudulently marketed as none of them have ever worked properly. Microsoft has always refused to stand behind their product and has refused to compensated buyers for their defective programs. This must change!

If any other major corporation pulled these stunts, or produced a product as defective as WINDOWS; Congress would put theme out of business. XP had four "service packs" released in the first two weeks of it's sales; and new patches are still coming out. It would be the same as if Pontiac sold a car that was recalled four times in the first two weeks after you bought it. If you bought a car with the defects of WINDOWS, it would qualify for the lemon laws in the first month of ownership. This is now a consumer issue and not just a commercial issue as it was ten years ago.

Get real; you are condescending to and protecting a con man with this nonsense.

Al Martin
PO Box 2234
Edison, NJ 08818
excalicoi@aol.com